RepRisk data now available on Open:FactSet Marketplace

Investment professionals now benefit from partnership between RepRisk and FactSet by accessing ESG data on new online platform

RepRisk, a leading research and business intelligence provider, is proud to be the first third-party provider of environmental, social, and governance (ESG) and business conduct risk data on the new Open:FactSet Marketplace platform. Launched this week by FactSet, a global provider of integrated financial information, analytical applications, and industry-leading services, the new online tool offers users both financial and extra-financial data.

“FactSet is excited to welcome RepRisk as a provider on the Open:FactSet Marketplace,” said Rich Newman, SVP and Global Head of Content & Technology Solutions, at FactSet. “High quality ESG data that is easy to integrate with additional resources is in great demand in the investment management community, which is why we are working together to provide datasets that clients can start using it immediately.”

“We are excited to have entered into this partnership with FactSet, which enables us to offer extra-financial insight to the investment community,” said Alexandra Mihailescu Cichon, Executive Vice President of Sales and Marketing at RepRisk. “Understanding ESG and business conduct-related risks, which are not always apparent through the traditional avenues of public company-mandated disclosures, is crucial for investment processes. We are delighted to be able to make our data accessible via FactSet’s innovative platform.”

RepRisk bases its research on media sources and stakeholders outside the companies it analyzes. This helps clients to assess whether such companies’ policies and processes translate into actual performance on the ground. More than 100,000 public and private companies of all sizes, in all sectors and countries, have been linked to ESG and business conduct risks, and RepRisk adds companies to its data on a daily basis as new risks arise.
